"Lighting a candle is a practically universal human tradition – whether people are religious or not. Particularly moving are the spontaneous candlelit vigils held when someone has died in an accident or there's been a disaster of some kind. ... Everyone hopes that the light will overcome the darkness. So it is no surprise that candles are popular in churches and this is a wonderful example of how Christ "baptises" something universal and brings out its deepest meaning."

[Magnificat Holy Week 2014 p 3 Fr D White o.p.]

These past six weeks of Lent have given us many opportunities to personalise the Church's invitation to do something "extra" both as individuals and as a community. Many of you have generously undertaken to serve the parish and the needs of this community in so many different ways and I am extremely grateful for your evident commitment to answer the call for our parish activities. Church cleaning, music, flowers, serving, reading, feet washing even(!), welcoming, ministering, visiting, fixing the leaking water pipes, altar linen that is always so nicely prepared, counting, banking, keeping the account books up to date, making sure that I don't starve to death and many other tasks that are necessary and important in parish life. I was once in a parish where the priest appeared just 2 minutes before a Sunday Mass was due to begin! ...Nobody knew what was going to happen and I have to say it was the pastoral efforts of parishioners that kept things together. Without them, I think the place would have collapsed. So, please, do not underestimate what you do to serve the parish community and, again, I offer you my deep gratitude knowing, as I do, that some of you cannot serve in the same capacity as you did in previous years. Thank you for past service too!

As the Mass of the Lord's Supper, the events of Good Friday, the proclamation of the Easter Vigil and the Alleluia of Easter Day guide us towards a new liturgical season and a living reminder of the Christ-Event in our lives, I wish you all, your families and your visitors a Very Blessed Easter Season as we pray to be renewed in mind and heart in our discipleship.

Weekly Offertory Envelopes: Because more parishioners are using their banks to arrange for parish support, we don't need the same number of "boxes" for the weekly collection. The boxes will be reduced to 40 from 55 (definitely cheaper!) and you may be given a new number. This will happen in June so we have time to prepare!
